

I've joined the group late, and the other group members have already done question 1. As I joined the group, they started distributing roles to take for question 2. So I chose to take up question 2b with Hao Wei. After the discussion among the two of us, Hao Wei decided to let me to do the deletion part, while he does the others. I had made some mistakes and Hao Wei has pointed out for me and guided me through. I didn't communicate much with other group members as I am quite an introverted person myself (I just did my allocated task).

We used github for documentation for easier document sharing and individual changes. My contribution is quite less as many things have been done and many tasks have been distributed.
